Vengeful Lawyer Cited as Suspicion Breeder

SHEPHERD CLAIMS PROBE OF DEATH INSPIRED BY FOE

Guardian and Heir of Billy McClintock Says He Will Do Some Investigating Himself.

REPORT OF AUTOPSY INCIDENTAL TO WORK

State to Continue Its Efforts Regardless of Corner's Findings, Says Public Prosecutor.

BY OTIS PEABODY SWIFT.
Kennesaw, Ill., December 28.—Placed in a position where, according to his lawyer, he has been accused "by implication and innuendo of being a murderer and a poisoner," William D. Shepherd, foster father of the dead Billy McClintock, expects a vindication that will "make just as big headlines as did the first news of the investigation of the millionaire orphan's death."

Seated in Billy McClintock's old room in the comfortable country house where he raised the boy from childhood, Shepherd outlined in detail his attitude toward the extraordinary tangle in which he is a central figure.

Shepherd Shows Strain.
Billy McClintock died of what was diagnosed as typhoid fever. He left the bulk of his estate of more than $1,000,000 to Shepherd, and an annuity of $8,000 to his fiancée, Miss Isabelle Pope. Judge Olson, of the municipal court, a life-long friend of "Billy's," demanded an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the boy's death. Miss Pope has given testimony concerning her romance with the youth.

Shepherd, a short, heavy-set man, whose round, pleasant face shows signs of the strain of the past few days, declares that Olson and Miss Pope have been influenced by an enemy of his.

Miss Pope "Disappointed."
Shepherd declares that this man, an attorney who he says he once "balked in a deal," has been hostile to him for a number of years and asserts that this man had something to gain by the attitude he has taken.

Robert H. Stoll, Shepherd's law partner and attorney, also declares that a deep seated enmity on the part of this mysterious enemy lies behind the "case" built up against Shepherd, and that Olson and Miss Pope have "someone" behind them. He dares Olson a "fool" and Miss Pope a "disappointed girl."

Paupers going into full details in answer to all questions, Shepherd denied one by one the charges implied in publicity given the case. He phoned through Suburban Kennesaw to call over young Jimmy Synedeker, who, with Billy and another youngster, made "the happy trio" gang in Kennesaw. Jimmy told the correspondent of his friendship with Billy, and how "Billy had a very

OPPORTUNITY'S KNOCK

Know One Thing

It's more important in business to know one thing well than to know an imperfect knowledge of many. Today belongs to the men who can do their work perfectly.

Employers are looking for workers who have learned how to handle details, who can handle them unobtrusively and move on to bigger things. The only way for anyone to get past the details stage in any business is to find out all there is to know about it—and master routine.

Right under the surface of the work you are doing is the secret of greater efficiency. A new vision of your work is awaiting you just as soon as you are ready to look for it. You must learn to control your present position before you can hope to control your future.

Here's one thing that's well worth knowing—the Classified Ad way of saving and making money.

$2,000,000 Fire Burns 30 Stores In Mississippi

Entire City Block Facing Courthouse Square of Corinth Is Wiped Out.

Corinth, Miss., December 28.—An entire business block, on the west side of courthouse square here, was destroyed by fire today. Early estimates of the damage place it between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

Over thirty stores were destroyed by the fire which, starting early this morning, threatened for a time to wipe out the entire business district. After a fight of over six hours in bitter cold weather, the fire department succeeded in confining it to the single block.

FERTILIZER HEAD RAPS UNDERWOOD BILL UPON SHOALS

Charges Fertilizer Industry Would Be Disrupted by Government Subsidized Competition.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, December 28.—The Underwood bill for the disposal of the government properties at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was assailed in a statement today by Gustav Ober, Jr., of Baltimore, president of the National Fertilizer association, as threatening demolition of the fertilizer industry.

Production of two million tons of fertilizer a year, Mr. Ober declared, as is proposed by Senator Underwood, "would not be enough to supply the entire demand, but would seriously disrupt the market." This fertilizer, he added, "would have to be sold, and for any price it would bring, and it would displace tonnage for which there is now more than adequate manufacturing equipment, causing demoralization in the industry."

Such a condition, he continued, "would be reflected in aggravated credit and financing difficulties of fertilizer manufacturers. The fertilizer industry represents an investment of more than $300,000,000, and any government action that impairs the value of this investment is bound to have far-reaching effects that will cause curtailed production and enhance prices to consumers beyond the shipping radius of Muscle Shoals."

The fertilizer industry, the statement declared, "is a vital part of the nation's food supply."

Pretty Dancer Rescues Child From Flames

Burning Building Is Scene of Heroism of Miss Lila Buchman.

When Miss Lila Buchman, pretty and diminutive 17-year-old dancer, leaves Atlanta today for 10 weeks of theatrical training in Cuba preparatory to a stage career she will carry with her one more conquest to the rapidly increasing list of achievements she has rolled up in local circles.

Miss Buchman is a heroine.

When flames early Sunday morning attacked the apartment building at 497 Cherokee avenue, owned by her father, Joseph Buchman, and named for her sister, Kathryn, Miss Buchman, despite the excitement, had the presence of mind to remember the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. McKnight, who occupied an apartment on an upper floor. She ran upstairs from her apartment on the first floor and carried the baby from the burning building, which was damaged by smoke and water to the extent of about $7,500.

After carrying the infant to safety, Miss Buchman returned to give further aid in rescue work, but firemen had arrived by this time and everyone had been awakened and was out of the building.

The fire's origin has not been determined. It is fully covered by insurance.

Miss Buchman recently distinguished herself as a talented dancer at a banquet at the Capital City club and was given a contract with a big theatrical company, which includes a trip to Cuba in which Miss Buchman will be accompanied by her sister, Kathryn, two years her senior.

New Arms Parleys To Deal With Both Land and Naval Forces Favored by English Peer.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
New York, December 28.—Before a distinguished gathering, which included Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Viscount Cecil of Chelwood was presented tonight with the $25,000 peace award and medal given under the Woodrow Wilson foundation for meritorious service in the cause of international cooperation and peace.

The presentation was made at a dinner at the Hotel Astor.

In accepting the award, Viscount Cecil asserted that the advance in the past five years in the direction of international cooperation had been "little short of marvelous."

Praising the United States for having consistently stood for peace, Viscount Cecil said that he would not utter a word of criticism of the attitude of America toward the League of Nations. He stressed, however, the accomplishments of the league since its inception under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, whom he characterized as "a great American and a great citizen of the world," adding "There is no title to fame higher than that."

Champions League Policies.
Mr. Wilson's contribution, he said, was the idea that peace was based on unity and solidarity of mankind, an idea contrary to that motivating the pre-war system which Viscount Cecil called "international anarchy diversified by war."

In explaining the actions and attitude of the league throughout its existence, Viscount Cecil dwelt on the problems raised by the Egyptian and Corfu controversies. He championed the stand of the league in both cases, affirming that the outcome had been a victory for peace.

"The league is there to deal with international relations, not with relations affecting the national administration of any country," Viscount Cecil explained, and he pointed out that the "relations between England and France are not a matter for the league."

'KID' M'COY JURY 'LOCKED, 10 TO 2

Indications Are That Alleged Slayer of Mrs. Mors Will Know His Fate Early Today.

Los Angeles, Cal., December 28.—Kid McCoy may know his fate tomorrow.

After being deadlocked at 6 to 6 and 7 to 3 for over two days, the jury which is struggling with evidence collected during the three-week trial of the former fighter on charges of murdering Mrs. Teresa Mors, informed Judge Crail at 8:20 o'clock Sunday night that they believed they soon would be able to arrive at a verdict if allowed to proceed with their deliberations.

Foreman W. H. Coulthart announced in court that the jury had switched to a 10 to 2 lineup, but gave no indication whether the majority was for conviction or acquittal.

He was told to take his panel back to the council room and continue the debate. Court room attaches, in view of the earlier majority which it was declared was for a verdict of not guilty, declared it was probable that 10 jurors were now voting to free the pugilist.

McCoy made his first appearance in the courtroom when Judge Crail called in the jurors. He said he "was feeling fine" and when asked about the lengthy jury sessions, declared he "felt sorry" for the jurors.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the jury ended its deliberations for the day and went to bed.

108 Persons Burn, 50 Homes Razed In Tokio Blaze

13 Bodies Recovered From Ashes of Private Sanatorium for Insane Patients.

Tokio, December 29.—(By the Associated Press).—A fire in a private institution for the insane here late last night is feared to have resulted in a serious loss of life. Out of 343 reported inmates of the institution, 108 are declared to be missing. Thirteen bodies had been recovered today. Fifty other residences in the vicinity of the asylum were burned before the flames were subdued.

BERLIN BITTERLY RESENTS DECISION IN COLOGNE ROW

German Liberal Organs Attack Herriot for Alleged Surrender to External Influence.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Berlin, December 28.—The decision of the Council of Ambassadors to postpone indefinitely the evacuation of the Cologne bridgehead unleashed a stream of bitter editorial comment in the Berlin newspapers.

The most severe criticism of the alleged surrender of M. Herriot, the French premier, to external influences oddly enough appears in the German liberal organs, which, since the London conference, had been inclined to view the French prime minister as the harbinger of a new era in Franco-German relations.

"M. Herriot, using Marshal Foch's saber, is not a very inspiring sight," remarks Theodore Wolff in a caustic editorial in the Tagblatt, in which he refers to "lame Herriot" in connection with the premier's recent indisposition. Wolff charges M. Herriot with having handed the German nationalists a "bracing tonic."

To Hamper Dawes Plan.
The French premier failed to remain true to himself and permitted the moral ground on which he was standing to slip away, the democratic Boersse Courier says.

Vorwarts, the radical organ, asks whether it will be a historic function of the year 1925 to undo all that has been accomplished in the nature of pacific reconstruction during 1924. It asserts that stable conditions in Germany are out of the question while her Rhineland frontiers are invaded or armed forces remain on German soil.

The problem, in the opinion of George Bernhard of the Vossische Zeitung, has an immediate bearing on the unhampered functioning of the Dawes plan, which he says presupposes complete economic independence for Germany.

Official Organs Silent.
The belief that Germany's foreign relations have measurably grown worse since the return of the conservative government in England is freely expressed in that section of the press which assumes that the present official orientation in England is distinctly hostile to Germany's economic progress and therefore would not disdain to ally itself with French imperialism.

Great Audience Enthrallled By "Light of the World"

BY KENNETH L. EAGON.
Christ was born again amid all the wonders of the age-old story as unfolded by "The Light of the World," the mammoth Christmas pageant, before more than 7,000 awe-inspired Atlantans at the auditorium Sunday. More than 1,000 other persons, who arrived after the big auditorium was filled, will have their opportunity to witness the marvelous tableaux-pageant, when it is repeated on New Year's day. The great community spectacle was the most impressive and successful in the eight years it has been presented under authorship and direction of Mrs. Earl Sherwood Jackson.

To the children of Atlanta—the hope of our future citizenry—this pageant was dedicated. "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

It was the eighth annual presentation of the story of the birth of Christ by hundreds of Atlantans—from the

WASHINGTON DEAF TO FRENCH PLEA FOR CUT IN DEBT

President and Congress Alike Oppose Any Plan to Cancel Part of War Obligation of France.

SENATOR SMOOT BARES ADMINISTRATION VIEW

Finance Chairman Says U. S. Will Not Pool Claims, Refund War Taxes, or Pay for Terrain

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
Washington, December 23.—France's latest bid for a reduction in her $4,000,000,000 debt to the United States struck a severe cold wave in official Washington. Cold is hardly an adequate word for describing the reception of the proposals of the French finance minister.

This government is willing to go a long way in extending a moratorium to allow France a breathing spell before beginning payments. But it is firmly set against writing off any of the principal.

This position has been stated so many times by responsible officials from President Coolidge down, that it is historical information rather than news. Even if the administration felt differently about the matter, it probably could do nothing, as congress is so firm that even the white house would have difficulty in budging it.

Situation to Continue.
This will continue to be the situation unless and until public sentiment changes. A change of sentiment is what France hopes for and that is what lay behind Ambassador Jusserand's recent speech which dwelt with great detail on the sufferings of France during the war.

There is entire sympathy here with the financial difficulties of France. America is more conscious than any other power, perhaps, of the suffering that France endured in the war. The administration and the American public have every desire to be lenient in allowing time in which to pay.

But when French officials begin to suggest that part of the debt be written off, they speak a language which is not understood here. Cancellation is out of the question in so far as this government is concerned.

Smoot's View Typical.
The typical administration attitude was reflected in the reaction of Senator Smoot, of Utah, a member of the debt funding commission, chairman of the senate finance committee, which must pass on any debt settlement, and not only one of the best informed senators on financial matters, but also a sincere friend of France.

He regards the three suggestions of the French finance minister as untenable.

"What about the proposal that the inter-allied debt be pooled and paid according to the wealth of the different nations?" Senator Smoot was asked.

"That will not be done," he replied. "It is suggested that war profits taxes collected by the United States on supplies bought here by France

Tunis, North Africa, December 28.—A soviet mission headed by Admiral Kriloff, accompanied by Lieutenant Arzur, of the French navy, has arrived at Bizerta and begun the work of inspecting the fleet of General Baron Peter Wrangel, the former anti-bolshevik leader in the Crimea, which Kriloff expects to take over shortly.

When Wrangel's army was defeated by the bolshevik forces which were advancing on Sebastopol, Wrangel fled with his fleet, which later took refuge in Bizerta.

EFFORT TO MUZZLE FREEDOM OF PRESS IS LAID TO HERRIOT

Premier and Paris Newspapers Cross Swords on Issue Which May Overthrow Him.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Paris, December 28.—Premier Herriot has crossed swords with the Paris newspapers over the question of freedom of the press.

His initiation of the prosecution of L'Eclair for the publication of "secret documents concerning national defense and the external safety of the state," has brought a strong protest from Count Etienne de Naleche, president of the syndicate of the Parisian Press, and a volley of vigorous retorts from all the opposition and many of the neutral newspapers, led by The Matin, The Temps, The Journal des Debats, The Figaro and The Intransigent.

Some of the newspapers construe the government's act in ordering the prosecution of L'Eclair as a desperate effort to muzzle the press to save the sinking ship. Count de Naleche, in protesting "with the greatest firmness," without waiting action by the syndicate's executive committee, says:

"I see, and the whole of the press will see in it, with legitimate emotion, a flagrant infringement of its liberty."

The premier, in replying to Count de Naleche, promptly denied that freedom of the press was at issue.

"But since we have been in power," M. Herriot added, "we have seen on several occasions unfortunate consequences of certain indiscretions, which more than once embarrassed diplomatic negotiations and threatened to cause complications."

"Only recently the newspaper, for which you intervene, published, in mutilated form, a record, the revelation of which caused the serious inconvenience of involving not only the head of the French government, but

'MR. ZERO' AND GANG REFUSED ADMISSION TO PRESENT DANCE

New York, December 23.—Dr. William Norman Guthrie, rector of St. Marks-in-the-Bowery, refused today to permit Urban J. Ledoux ("Mr. Zero") and his army of unemployed to invade his church to present a "zandy dance" preparatory to sleeping in the church building overnight.

When "Mr. Zero" who was released today from a hospital, where he had been confined with a cold, lined up 27 of his men with shovels before the army's headquarters, "the tub," the police told him he could not parade them without a permit. He made no effort to take his men to the church.

Dr. Guthrie refused to see Ledoux. He said the church was set apart for sacramental use, and there was no excuse for any other use except that of direct human emergency, which he asserted did not exist in the present case.

FORMER FINANCIER TO BECOME CLERK TO COLQUITT BOARD

Alleged Fake Hold-Up and Admitted Infatuation for Catherine Bradstreet Figured in Trial.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE FOLLOWED FIRE PROBE

No Announcement of Pardon Made at Capitol. Green's Term Nearly at End as Governor Acted.

William B. Green, convicted in 1920 of embezzling funds of the Fairburn Banking company, of Fairburn, of which he was vice president, and sentenced to serve five years in prison, was pardoned by Governor Clifford Walker on Christmas eve. It became known here Sunday night following dispatches from Moultrie and Fairburn.

The case of the former official of the Fairburn bank created considerable interest in this section because of the prominence of Green, the large sums of money involved and the part played in the case by Mrs. Catherine Bradstreet, who was jointly indicted with Green, and upon whom, it was claimed, the banker spent "fabulous sums." She was subsequently tried on a charge of being an accessory and acquitted.

W. O. Martin, who audited the bank's books shortly after the fire, testified at the trial of Green, that the books showed a shortage of $147,000.

Visits Home of Mother.
Green, who was serving his sentence on the Colquitt county chain gang, arrived in Fairburn Christmas morning and went immediately to the home of his mother, Mrs. W. E. Green, where he stayed until Sunday in close seclusion. It is said that he left for Moultrie Sunday night to make his home and assume the duties of clerk of board of commissioners of Colquitt county, to which position he has been tentatively elected. His election will be ratified formally by that body at a meeting the first week in January, it is said. It is reported that Mrs. Green and her little daughter will follow Green to Moultrie, where the family will be reunited and make their home.

While Governor Walker was in Savannah Sunday night and could not be reached for a statement regarding Green's pardon, his secretary, M. C. Bennett, said that he understood the pardon was recommended by the prison commission. None of the three members of the commission could be communicated with Sunday night.

Sentence Nearly Ended.
Green was assigned to the state prison farm at Milledgeville after his conviction, but later was transferred to the prison in Colquitt county. It is said that his sentence would have expired 23 days from the date of his pardon, since he had been granted four days off each month for "good behavior," and that the pardon was granted in order that he might spend Christmas with his family, and that he might retain his citizenship.

Green's trial opened on March 30, 1920, in the Campbell county superior court before Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, and lasted until the night of April 4, when

Mercury at Chicago Drops To 13 Degrees Below Zero; Six Are Frozen To Death

Sunday Was Coldest December 28 in History of City—Fire Damage Was Very Heavy.

Chicago, December 28.—Chicago today suffered the coldest December 28 in the history of the weather bureau, when the temperature at 5 a. m. went to 13 degrees below zero. The polar weather took a toll of six lives, caused more than a half million dollars damage by fires, and led to the shooting of two tenants by an apartment house janitor.

The cold did not approach the record for December, the mercury on December 4, 1871, being pushed down to 23 below. Relief within the next 24 hours was promised by the weather man. At 7 p. m. the official thermometer read 2 above.

An epidemic of fire alarms swept over the city as the temperature slid down, more than 400 being turned in last night and today. Most of the fires broke out during the early morning hours, forcing hundreds into streets swept by biting winds.

More than a thousand complaints against cold flats were registered with the department of health. Two late tenants, Leonard Oslander and L. Jacobson, sought to remonstrate with their janitor in person. They are said to have backed up their demands with a revolver, the janitor seized the weapon and shot the men. Neither was seriously wounded and the janitor was arrested.

RISE IN TEMPERATURES PREDICTED BY BUREAU.
Washington, December 28.—Gradually rising temperatures during the next two days throughout the eastern half of the country, except southern Florida, was predicted tonight by the weather bureau.

Fair weather will prevail almost generally east of the Mississippi river Monday, but Tuesday will be cloudy, with probably snow in the north, rain or snow in the middle and rain in the southern sections.

Several points in Illinois and Indiana reported to the weather bureau the lowest December temperatures on record, including 24 degrees below zero at Peoria, Ill. Temperatures dropped generally Saturday night in the north Atlantic states, the lowest being the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the east gulf states. Considerably colder weather prevailed Sunday in the middle Atlantic section, where there was a die Atlantic storm, with temperatures Sunday throughout the plains states and the Rocky mountain and plateau sections.

MERCURY HITS ZERO IN NEW YORK TODAY.
New York, December 28.—Zero weather is the prediction here for Monday.

Thermometers showed 12 above zero about daylight Sunday, but by 3 o'clock the mercury had ascended to 23 degrees.

No such luck for Monday, though, the forecaster predicts. By late afternoon, the temperature may be possibly 10 degrees above zero, which is the warmest hoped for.

Charitable institutions Sunday were busy offering relief and giving shelter. One death from the cold was reported.

SECOND COLD WAVE SWEEPS NEW ENGLAND.
Boston, December 28.—A cold wave, the second that has gripped New England within eight days, drove the mercury far down in thermometers throughout the territory early today and brought below zero temperatures in northern New England. Temperatures ranging from 8 to 20 degrees below zero were reported from Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. In Boston, the lowest temperature was 7 degrees above the zero mark.

10 TO 17 BELOW ZERO REPORTED IN MICHIGAN.
Marquette, Mich., December 28.—The upper peninsula of Michigan is in the grip of the coldest wave of the present winter. Temperatures in Marquette since Saturday night have varied from 10 to 17 below zero. Temperatures as low as 30 below zero were reported from some points in the peninsula last night and this morning.

8 BELOW REPORTED BY ST. LOUIS BUREAU.
St. Louis, Mo., December 28.—With an official temperature reading of 8 degrees below zero, St. Louis and vicinity today experienced the coldest weather of the winter. At Harrisburg, Ill., southeast of here, a temperature of 11 degrees below zero was reported.

26 DEGREES BELOW AT SARANAC LAKE.
Saranac Lake, N. Y., December 28.—The thermometer registered 26 degrees below zero here early this morning and dropped still lower at adjacent points in the Adirondacks.

50 BELOW IS REPORTED AT HUMBOLDT, MICHIGAN.
Humboldt, Mich., December 28.—A temperature of 50 degrees below zero, thought to be the lowest mark by the mercury anywhere in upper Michigan peninsula during the present cold wave, was reported today from Humboldt, about 30 miles from here. Humboldt is the highest point in Marquette county and is one of the highest in the peninsula.

10 TO 22 DEGREES BELOW REPORTED IN INDIANA.
Indianapolis, December 28.—One death, much suffering among the poor, damage to railway, traction and wire service, and the freezing of water pipes resulted from the record-breaking cold wave which held Indiana in its grip today. An average maximum temperature of from 10 to 22 degrees below zero was reported from over the state.

Mrs. Ralph Nattinger, 45, apparently walking in her sleep, left her home in Seymour about 5 o'clock this morning. Her body was found a few rods from the house soon afterwards, where she had frozen to death.

Several agencies from over the state reported intense suffering among the poor because of lack of fuel and clothing. Efforts are being made to comfort the needy until the cold wave passes.

Practically all railway trains and traction cars were running behind schedule and many wires were snapped, according to reports reaching here.

'Madame Butterfly' Ticket Sale Will Open This Morning
Seats for the New Year's eve performance of "Madame Butterfly" by the San Carlo grand opera company will be put on sale today at the store of Phillips & Chew company, 100 N. Southern street, which is in charge of the local engagement. The opera will be the second number of the artist's series, recently opened by de Pachmann, the pianist.

"Madame Butterfly" will be presented Wednesday night only at the auditorium, and will be given in complete form, with four excellent principals, a large chorus and orchestra and full stage settings. The San Carlo company has been presenting standard grand opera for fifteen years, playing only in the larger cities.

The leading role will be taken by Tamaki Miura, the Japanese soprano, who is considered by many critics the most convincing interpreter of the Japanese geisha girl. Mme. Miura will be supported by the foremost stars of the San Carlo company.

To permit opera-goers to go to the New Year's eve dance in time for the height of the fun, the performance will start at 8:15 o'clock and end at 10:45 o'clock.

Transfusion Extends Life.
Macon, Ga., December 28.—Mrs. Lily J. Smith, 63, died today, but doctors said that a transfusion of blood operation performed last Sunday kept her alive over Christmas. She was the mother of Mrs. J. M. Sigmund, wife of Major Sigmund.

Macon Population Gains.
Macon, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—According to a survey of the population of Macon, made for the Chamber of Commerce, this city now has 61,827 people, as compared with 52,995 in 1920. This does not include the built-up sections outside the city limits.

AMUSEMENTS

Atlanta Theater—All week, Zeigfeld's "Sally," musical comedy. A company of 75.
Lyric Theater—Lyric Players in "Help Wanted."
Loew's Grand—Loew's vaudeville and pictures. See advertisement for program.
Forsyth Theater—Keith's vaudeville. See advertisement for program.
Howard Theater—Betty Bronson in "Peter Pan."
Metropolitan Theater—Anna Q. Nilsson in "Lure From Hollywood."
Rialto Theater—Monte Blue and Beverly Bayne in "Her Marriage Vow."
Tudor Theater—Baby Peggy in "The Family Secret."
Alamo No. 2—Betty Blythe in "The Spillings."
Palace Theater—Kenneth Harlan in "The Virginian."

'Help Wanted.'
(At the Lyric.)
Atlantans who enjoy real acting on the stage and like to see the sort of action and the sort of people who give them a bit of a thrill now and then, along with the laughter, have just what they want at the Lyric theater. "Help Wanted" is the play, a story of intrigue and romance in a business office where reputations, fortunes and even lives turn during existing moments on a word or a glance. The Lyric Players' Dramatic Stock company, back refreshed and enthusiastic after five weeks' rest, are the people who do the acting and they are so appropriately cast that they may be expected to do it exceedingly well. Fred Raymond is an aggressive young business man who has just won promotion to partnership with Will Lloyd, as his stepfather, when the graying millionaire sets out to conquer the heart of a stenographer he fancies and whom his stepson loves. The plot hardly suggests the virile, pulse-quickening course of the action. Tonight is ladies' bargain night for the opening performance.

Keith's Forsyth.
A carnival of song and dance, with a colorful background of Bohemian life, is the unusual offering at Keith's Forsyth theater as the headlining feature for the first three days of this week.

The program also includes "The Four Horsemen"—not a moving picture, but a highly-pleasing novelty. Mallon and Case offer smiles a plenty in "Keeping the Doctor Away," while the Follies Girls present "The Snappy Flappers." Ann Schuler and company have an athletic act of much merit.

A Pathe news reel and a Felix Cat comedy complete the program.

Loew's Vaudeville.
Milo, one of the biggest of the big-time acts in vaudeville today, will be seen at Loew's Grand theater all this week as the headline attraction of an unusually good bill of vaudeville. Milo has a great variety act, so it would not be at this time to say a word about what the act is. On the same bill is the Wania Simon review, with Jane Moore. This is a treacherous novelty with a sprinkling of songs and comedy. A beauty chorus of five is featured. Three other splendid acts, including two with songs, dances and comedy galore, and a troupe of the funniest acrobats on the stage, Eleanor Boardman and "Peter the Great," the great big actor, in "The Silent Accuser."

'Peter Pan.'
(At the Howard.)
"Peter Pan," which has stood for 21 years as one of the most charming classics of the stage, in picture form, proves one of the most delightful fantasies ever screened. The production produced by Paramount is James Barrie's famous story, and opens at the Howard today. Milo, Amelia and her corps de ballet will be seen in a marvelous prologue depicting some of the fairy scenes as shown in the picture. The overture by the Howard symphony orchestra will be "Aida," under the conductorship of Alex. Keese. Other short novelty subjects will go to make up an attractive program.

'Her Marriage Vow.'
(At the Rialto.)
Whether a woman has the right to kidnap her own children is a question only law courts decide. It's one of the thrilling climaxes to "Her Marriage Vow," at the Rialto theater for the New Year's week.

"For the Love of Mike" is another of the "Telephone Girl" series of short subjects from the stories of H. C. Witwer.

Zeigfeld's "Sally" Opens Tonight Atlanta Theater

No production has ever been more keenly anticipated here than Zeigfeld's "Sally," which will arrive in all its splendor at the Atlanta theater tonight, when it will begin a week's engagement with matinees Wednesday, Thursday (New Year's day) and Saturday after its long and successful New York engagement. Year in and year out we await the finer shows, but productions like "Sally" are only occasional events. When "Sally" was offered for the first time in New York it attracted an audience that would rival any of the grand opera audiences at the Metropolitan. There was a novelty to "Sally." Heretofore Mr. Zeigfeld had concentrated on his beloved "Follies," but "Sally," a Zeigfeld musical comedy, was different and everybody who has seen it has agreed that there has been nothing better of its kind. The beauty, artistry and gorgeousness of the Zeigfeld Follies has long since labeled this producer as the "Titan" of the profession. All this same beauty and gorgeousness has been retained in "Sally," but it has a story. One New York critic describes it as "everything the poor old tired business man and the juvenile theatergoer could wish for." Of course Mr. Zeigfeld called in his co-workers to get the production together, all of whom must come in for a share of its success. Guy Bolton is responsible for the book and Clifford Grey, who was brought over from London, especially to collaborate, has contributed the lyrics; Jerome Kern thought up the tunes and Joseph Urban attended to the scenery, while the entire production was staged by Edward Royce. A company of 75 people, a special orchestra and two baggage cars of scenery, carrying the entire original New York production intact, give an indication of the big city proportions of this musical comedy de luxe.

VENGEFUL LAWYER CITED BY SHEPHERD

happy life—and was very happy at home.

Shows Billy's Room.
The Rev. James A. Thome, Presbyterian clergyman who was present at the funeral of Billy's mother, was at the Shepherd house Sunday, and denied the implications that there had been any mystery regarding her death in 1909, or that she had been hastily buried at night.

In a tour of the richly furnished house Shepherd was present, said to have been circulated that Billy lived in a "cubby hole over the kitchen," by showing Billy's room, a simply furnished but comfortable room with the dead boy's pipe still on the dresser, and a picture of his first house on the wall.

"I have been accused by implication of two things," Shepherd said. "At first it was implied that I poisoned Billy. When that was proven groundless, by an autopsy of the boy's body it was implied that I had administered typhoid fever germs to him in some way."

"Never in my legal experience have I seen an attempt to build up a criminal case on such material as has been advanced in this investigation," he said later. "Of course I visited a laboratory. I went there for treatment. Of course I looked at the slides there, and was interested in them."

Threatens Vengeance.
"Billy was like a son to me. I have been called 'Mr. McClintock' by people to whom he introduced me as 'father.' Go into any house here in Kenilworth, and ask whether Billy had a happy home life."

"At the present time my attitude would be one of complete disgust at these charges were it not for the fact that my reputation is badly damaged, that when those making the implied charges to apologize tomorrow my reputation would never be cleared with some people. I am not cold-hearted. I am of a calm temperament, and my policy is to quash these implications completely, one by one. Meanwhile I am making an investigation as to who is behind this affair, and preparing a complete vindication, based on facts."

Shepherd said that it has been his intention to turn over a sum sufficient to provide Miss Pope with the $8,000 annuity called for in the will, but that he now intends to create a trust fund to provide an $8,000 retirement income, and a provision that on her death the money would go to McClintock's church and to charity.

Examination of McClintock's internal organs continued Sunday in Chicago, but it is expected that no report will be forthcoming until late in the week.

Houston City Court Ends.
Perry, Ga., December 28.—The city court of Houston county, created in 1908, will pass out of existence tomorrow under an act of the Georgia legislature. Lawyers have been given notice that they can take judgments tomorrow in all default cases.

Judge A. C. Riley has been judge of the court since 1910.

CAPPER-WILLIAMS BILL PROTESTED

Washington, December 28.—The Farmer-to-Consumer league announced today it had filed protest with the president's agricultural commission against the proposed Capper-Williams bill for agricultural relief.

The measure was described in the statement "as nothing more or less than a sugar-coated pill prepared in the interest of Chicago packers and New York middlemen." Declaring the proposed bill also to be of "paternalistic character," the statement added that "the packer, the commission merchant, produce broker and the parasitic middlemen are given an equal opportunity in deciding what prices shall be paid to the farmer for his products."

The future of the cooperative marketing association is challenged by this bill, the statement asserted, recommending the Curtis-Aswell measure providing for national organization as the kind that will enable agriculture to defend itself "against exploitation and save itself from ruin by its exploiters."

1 KILLED, 1 INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Milledgeville, Ga., December 28.—Walter Richardson, 25, of Eatonton, Ga., was drowned, and Clara Angles, 19, of this county, was badly hurt late last night when their automobile plunged over a fill and into Camp Creek three miles south of here. The car turned over on both men.

Negroes who heard the cries for help ran a half mile to the scene. They found Angles' head just above the water and pulled him out. Richardson was lifeless.

Angles is suffering not only from injuries, but from exposure.

Unusual Opportunity For Local Sales Manager

A progressive Pennsylvania manufacturer has commissioned me to advertise for an able, energetic branch manager for its Atlanta sales work.

This manufacturer, whom I serve as advertising agent, is rapidly opening branch offices in the principal cities of America.

The product is a distinctive woman's garment, appealing strongly to practically all women. Sales are made mainly by saleswomen from home to home, but also at district office.

Local manager does not have to purchase merchandise except as sales are made, but must have the necessary money to equip his office and have the knack of selecting and training sales representatives.

Strong support from Home Office. Distinctive advertising aids that lift work out of class of ordinary soliciting.

This opportunity is an exceptional one for the man who desires to build up a permanent business for himself. Should appeal strongly to a man who can earn $5,000 to $10,000 or more yearly.

Write full letter about your experience and, if possible, send small photograph. Special representative from manufacturer's office will visit Atlanta early in January for closing contract and helping to organize local work.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity Holds Memorial Service and Model Initiation

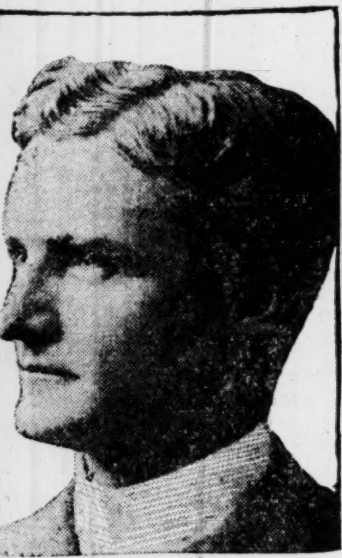

ROBERT F. MADDOX.

S. B. BLOODGETT.

LAUREN FOREMAN.

O. H. B. BLOODWORTH.

N. BAXTER MADDOX.

JUDGE BLANTON FORTSON.

Memorial services for members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity who have died since the 1923 convention, and a model initiation of honor freshmen from the four chapters located in Georgia, Sunday night marked pre-convention activities of the sixty-eighth annual convention of that organization at the Biltmore hotel.

More than 400 delegates from all parts of the United States attended the opening program under direction of William C. Levere of Evanston, Ill., eminent supreme recorder, and Thomas G. Hobbs, of Lynchburg, Va., eminent supreme archon.

The temple, located in the ballroom of the hotel, was brilliantly decorated in purple and gold, fraternity colors. Local committees had completed final arrangements and all details were working smoothly as delegates began to arrive Sunday morning.

Special committees with automobiles met the visitors at the stations and escorted them to headquarters at the Biltmore hotel.

Atlanta Are Hosts.
Williams D. Thomson is president of the Atlanta alumni chapter, which is host to the convention; B. S. Bloodgett is vice president, and Cobb C. Torrence, secretary and treasurer. N. Baxter Maddox is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mr. Levere delivered the memorial address. Prayer was led by Dr. Charles W. Daniel. Scripture was read by Dr. F. C. McConnell. Mr. Hobbs presided at the memorial service and over the model initiation, which was conducted by members of the supreme council.

The following men were initiated: From Georgia Tech—Albert W. Shepherd, of Columbus; Thomas N. West, of Savannah; Robert C. Read, of Marietta; Ernest B. Merry, Jr., of Augusta, and Charles L. Humphrey, of Atlanta; from Emory—Edwin L. Stone, Woodrow Coleman, Jr., and Sam N. Innman, of Atlanta; and George L. Converse, of Valdosta; from the University of Georgia—T. Marvin Pryor, of Albany; James M. Roberts, of Monroe; Thomas L. Lumsden, of Miami Beach, Fla.; and Merrill H. Collier, of Atlanta; and from Mercer—Henry E. Lowe, Jr., of Mercer; Samuel R. Tipton, of Sylvester; Julius T. Johnson, of Hartwell, and Joe G. Tarpley, of Fairburn.

In addition to those mentioned above, members of the supreme council are Lauren Foreman, of Atlanta, eminent vice supreme archon; Oliver K. Quiver, of Baltimore, eminent supreme herald; and Governor William W. Brandon, of Alabama, honorary supreme archon.

Formal Opening Today.
The open house was observed at the Tech chapter house Sunday afternoon. An automobile tour of Atlanta and its environs is planned for Tuesday.

The convention will be formally opened at 9 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel.

Members of the supreme council will deliver addresses at the annual convention banquet at the Biltmore tonight, over which Robert F. Maddox will preside. Addresses of Governor Brandon; C. D. Kimball, of Denver, Col.; Judge Alfred K. Nippert, of Washington, D. C.; Don R. Alms, of New York, on "The American College Fraternity"; Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, of Detroit, on "The Future of the S. A. E. Fraternity"; Colonel Walter R. Brown, of Atlanta, on "Breaking the Shell"; Jack McCartney, Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, and Judge O. H. B. Bloodworth, of the Georgia court of appeals, will be featured.

Dead Are Honored.
Georgia chapters of the fraternity are at Georgia university, Emory university, Georgia Tech and Mercer university. There are 94 chapters in the United States with a total enrollment of 36,000, including alumni members.

Late brothers of the fraternity, who have died since the 1923 meeting and who were honored in the service Sunday night follow: Irvin Alexander, Georgia Beta; John McDowell Anderson, Alabama Beta; Harry Craig Austin, Georgia Beta; Allen Arnold, Georgia Beta; Donald P. ## NOT A CANDIDATE, SAYS ANDERSON

Macon, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—"I am not a candidate for any office, either by appointment or election, and do not expect to become a candidate. I seek no honors," is the answer W. F. Anderson makes to the rumor that he would be a candidate for governor of Georgia in 1926. This statement is contained in a signed editorial appearing in the Sunday issue of The Macon Telegraph, of which he is publisher.

For some time it has been reported that Anderson might be a candidate at the next election, and that report was heightened recently when Nelson Shipp, editorial writer on The Telegraph, under his signature, suggested that Anderson be a candidate.

Favors Roads and Schools.
In addition to being publisher of The Telegraph, Anderson is a member of the state highway commission, and writing further of his plans the editorial, in part, says: "I want Georgia to build roads and schoolhouses. I advocate ample funds for the purpose named. The automobiles are paying $6,500,000 annually in tag and gasoline tax, and if this were put entirely on the roads, we should be able to enter upon a road and school program that would make Georgia grow by leaps and bounds. Some argument has been made by me as to the advisability of issuing bonds. I am first in favor of financing the road building in ample amount, out of the revenues already levied, which are being diverted from the channels where I think morally they belong. If we can't get those funds, then issue bonds, but build the roads, of permanent material, regardless of what the immediate cost is, and coordinate the schools of the state, so they will function most efficiently and economically."

Governor Handicapped.
The editorial states that the governor of Georgia, whoever he is, is handicapped in rendering service to the state by the impression people get that there is political significance in his every act, and concludes with the statement: "If the honor is conferred upon me, it will have to be done by the people without my urging or request, and I shall have to construe their votes as drafting me into their service with no other purpose on my part than to try diligently to give them the best that is in me."

Hatchery for Columbus.
Columbus, Ga., December 28.—A huge hatchery with a capacity of 10,368 eggs will be opened December 30 to farmers in Muscogee county. Eggs for the hatchery will be bought at prices above those prevailing on local markets after the flocks have been inspected by an expert designated for that work. The hatchery will dispose of the chicks when they are one day old.

Colquitt Cotton Doubles.
Moultrie, Ga., December 28.—More than twice as much cotton was produced in Colquitt county in 1924 than during the year 1923, according to figures announced today by the census. More than 11,000 bales had been ginned prior to December 20 as compared with 5,910 bales during the same period last year.

EGYPTIAN EX-PREMIER RAPS NEW GOVERNMENT

Cairo, December 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Wafd, or executive committee of the Egyptian nationalist organization, has issued a manifesto to the nation, signed by former Premier Zagloul Pasha, denouncing the government of Premier Ziwar for alleged unconstitutional acts in defiance of public opinion.

The manifesto asserts that the dissolution of parliament was needless, because parliament was in possession of public confidence. It accuses the government of arresting innocent persons, including deputies, in disregard of their parliamentary immunity, and warns the nation that Ziwar's ministry is trying to select deputies not representative of the real opinion of the country. Therefore an appeal is made to the provincial governors and other officials to be impartial during the elections.

"Egyptians," says the manifesto, "you must teach the ministry that, despite all its efforts, it will not attain its ends and that you are aware of the danger of electing deputies who do not represent the program of the Zagloul government, which obtained your unanimous approval."

After serving sixty-seven years as chimney sweep, having climbed his first chimney at six, Charles Morley, of Hastings, England, died recently.

TOBACCO GROWERS COME TO GEORGIA

Valdosta, Ga., December 28.—More than a score of North Carolinians have deserted the older tobacco section for the newly developed regions in south Georgia. Twenty-seven growers from North Carolina have come into the Valdosta territory within the past few weeks and are making preparations for producing the weed during the next season. Virtually all of the newcomers already are at work preparing their seed beds and barns.

Chas. Sciple Sees Unusually Good Year Ahead for South

The business man and builders of the southeast can look forward to an unusually good year in 1925, states Charles E. Sciple, of the well known firm of Sciple & Sons.

Mr. Sciple's firm began in the building material business away back in 1872 and there are few men in the entire southland who are in closer touch with the pulse of this section than he, and he speaks very optimistically of the outlook for 1925.

Take here in Atlanta, states Mr. Sciple, the large buildings proposed even at this time mean much to our fast growing city, for whenever a large building is put up in any community many improvements are quick to follow in that vicinity by other property owners.

Take as an illustration the fact that the National Biscuit company is going to erect a big plant costing in the neighborhood of a million dollars on East Hunter street, running back to the railroad with a railroad track and another improvement in that section of the city, for as we understand, this big plant will employ something over a 1,000 people, and this will mean that a large number of the city where small negro houses now stand will soon loom up as a live community center.

Take as another illustration the many large buildings proposed for the vicinity of Peachtree, Cain and Harris streets, the plans and drawings for the duplicate addition of the Henry Grady hotel, a new theatre, an office building for the First Baptist church, the J. P. Allen department store and other projects, all are big projects and will be great acquisitions to Atlanta.

The big improvements being made by the Southern railroad are big things, in themselves. Take their new addition to the old Southern shops. This is of far bigger importance than the average man thinks it is, and will have the effect of more skilled workers, needing housing facilities and service in the building of the large passenger coach and repair department building they are getting ready to build on Gray and John streets will do much to improve things in that neighborhood.

The dismantling of the old Terminal shed and replacing it with the modern shed similar to the Pennsylvania railroad station in Washington will also be a big job that will keep many men busy, especially in the structural steel line.

The Stone mountain memorial work will again get under way with renewed effort, for the heart and sentiment of the south are with this great undertaking, and when these new Stone mountain dollars are offered to the people they will be snapped up in short order, giving $1,000,000 or more to extend the work and with such sterling citizens as G. S. Willis and acting Mayor General David S. Shanks actively cooperating, with the sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, this work is sure to be carried on to a successful finish.

Not only a small part of the construction work that will take place around Atlanta for there is such a large demand for the small cottage for the man of moderate means that undoubtedly several thousand of these homes will be built in and around Atlanta this coming year.

Now will most all the building be confined to this vicinity, for right now we are sending more cement out in different parts of the south than we have in several years before.

The great amount of road work being done everywhere in the state also will be of great benefit to everybody, for no sooner is a street paved either in the country or the city than the property owners begin to take renewed pride and interest in their property and begin to make some improvements that were otherwise overlooked.

Another movement that will be of great importance to the entire southeast, and especially to the state of Georgia, is this big world's fair to be held in Savannah in 1927, for while the fair itself will be held in Savannah, big, broad-minded men will readily see that untold benefit will come to the state at large, for while the fair or maritimes exposition, as the Savannah people call it, will be the means of attracting the people of the world to our great state and it will simply be up to the people of the different sections of the state to show them the natural resources, both above and below the ground, and when this is done, coupled with our matchless climate, untold numbers of desirable citizens are sure to take up residence upon our idle farms and increase the wealth of our grand old commonwealth manifold.

Thomas A. Edison Spared No Effort Developing Ediphone

In this day and time every advantage is being taken of every labor-saving device and attachment, and nowhere does this apply more than in the modern up-to-date office. It is here where the time and money-savers of all departments are first given consideration.

When Thomas Edison, the premier inventor of them all, said "I have spared no effort in developing the Ediphone because ambitious persons use them and they deserve the best assistance," and in giving the Ediphone to the business man, Mr. Edison has done more to promote the efficiency of the modern business office by his inventions than any other one man.

The Ediphone of the day is an office appliance that pleases every much the executive or office manager and his secretary, for the one Ediphone can do so at his or her pleasure during office hours or after the ball game or golf match is over and yet while the stenographer with her mind free from the worries of shorthand can write two letters where she does one, when she has to first write in shorthand and then type it on the machine.

As the Ediphone is electrically controlled and just by touching a button or another key, as were, along side of the typewriter the rotating cylinder begins to speak and if necessary another button can be touched to make the cylinder repeat whatever that is required, as the machine can be regulated to run fast or slow at the convenience of the operator.

The Ediphone here in Atlanta is handled by the Baylis Office Equipment company, 76 Marietta street, and this department is taken care of by W. Chandler Quinn, who has had 14 years' experience with these Ediphones and putting the service of the Edison company's trained correspondence experts back of every machine, the owner has the assurance that he has the best of its kind.

While all the large corporations and firms now have many of these Ediphones in use, as may be seen here in Atlanta, in the General Electric, Southern Bell, Southern Railway, Ford Motor company, National Carbon company, Texas company, Western Union, Georgia Casualty company, Woolworth's and W. R. C. Smith's Publishing company. They are also coming into much use with the busy professional man and individual who has much correspondence and only a limited time in which to get it out.

Atlanta Service Station Leads All In Their Line

Intelligent and experienced men, each rendering obliging service in his own department under efficient management, combined with an ideal location and the right kind of advertising are the reasons why the J. L. Carroll filling station at Spring and Harris streets is now pointed to as the busiest filling station in the entire south.

"We have a happy combination of having the right men in the right place," stated the manager, John H. Holland, Saturday when seen by this correspondent, "and we do business more like a big department store than any other service station in the south."

"We have in Harvey Weatherly, Sr., a very popular man, an old baseball manager that has been in the gasoline business for about 15 years and numbers his friends by the thousands, and since we put in our three new 10-gallon visible electrically operated pumps, Mr. Weatherly is selling around 1,500 gallons of gas a day, which you will have to admit is selling some gas."

"These new pumps, by the way, are the biggest thing of their kind in this part of the country, and for speed they cannot be beaten; they can be refilled in 22 seconds, so that if a driver should be in a real hurry he can get 10 gallons of gas in less than one minute, and as these three big pumps are so arranged that a great many people can be served in a very short time, nobody has ever a minute to wait to fill up here."

In the tire department we have E. S. Jamerson, who has seven service trucks at his command, and no matter when you have tire trouble in Atlanta and vicinity, day or night, just call him at IVy 3262 and he will send an experienced trouble man to you in a very few minutes; and, of course, if you need new tires or inner tubes we have a big stock of Kelly, Springfield and Ajax tires on hand and Mr. Jamerson can fit you up in short order.

"In the Trust-O-Lite battery department we are doing a wonderfully big business since Jack Williams came with us, and are doing battery work not only for Atlanta people, but for a great many car owners who are coming many miles into Atlanta to have this work done. We are gaining such a splendid reputation in our battery service work that we are enlarging it all the time and putting on new men, as this department like all the rest, is open 24 hours a day, those bringing a battery here may have the same in 12 hours if they need the same, but if of course we let them have our service batteries while their own are being recharged or repaired."

"Our vulcanizing department is looked after by Oliver Sanders, an expert in this line, and he is prepared to vulcanize anything from a bicycle tire to a 14-inch solid tire, and his work is guaranteed here, any work done in this department is giving such complete satisfaction that many new customers are added to our book every month."

"In the bookkeeping department we have Mrs. Carroll, Miss Fleming and Albert Jensen. This shows to what size our business has grown, and in the last few months, and the outlook for the coming year indicates that as the motorists more and more come to appreciate good and quick service the J. L. Carroll company will grow. This company extends the greetings of the season to the motoring public and invites them to call and see when in need of anything in our line."

FOOTBALL RULES TO BE CENTER OF STORM TODAY

Numerous Cage Games Billed Here This Week

Georgia Quint Plays "Y" And A. A. C. Meets Aggies In Feature Games of Week

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN.

Even though there was an alleged lull of a few days in general sporting activities during the holiday season when the hired hands in the sporting department were either in a reminiscent mood or peering into the future, this week brings us enough basketball games in Atlanta alone to last for a whole season, provided a person could get around to see them all.

First and foremost in importance are the games at the Y. M. C. A. and auditorium Saturday night when the University of Georgia opens the cage season with the Y quintet at the Luckie street home of the latter, and the game between the Atlanta Athletic club and the Mississippi Aggies. About 317 games will be played in the Sunday School leagues and similar organizations in the city.

The Athletic club contest at the auditorium will pry the lid for that organization and a great game is expected to result from the meeting of these two squads. The club is turning out a strong team this year, with a brilliant array of new material to aid the varsity men from last year's squad.

The men reporting for the team are: Captain "Scrappy" Sullivan, Joe Singleton, Joe Eckford, Baby Boat, Bill Morrow, Pat Stephens, Reggie O'Dwyer, "Porky" Williams, George Perrell, Joe Bennett, Fred Brock, Miller Alexander, Tom Bryan, Fred Ritz, Orling and "Steve" Hartney. The above list of candidates is familiar to all fans in Atlanta who have watched the basketball careers of these boys through prep school or college.

Georgia's First Game. The other big game in town that night—Georgia vs. Y. M. C. A. marks the opening of the season for the Bulldogs, though the Y-athletes played LaGrange here Saturday before last. All seats for the contest will be reserved and may be secured in advance.

The Y candidates will resume practice tonight after the holiday season and expect to be in tip-top condition in time for the game. The men expected to start the game are Wilkinson, Perry, Law, Bauman and Buford, all of whom are veterans of last season's quintet, except Brown. He fills the shoes of "Daniel" Boon, the only absent member.

The Georgia basketball candidates discontinued practice sessions last Tuesday, and went to the home to enjoy the Christmas holidays. Beginning with the game next Saturday, the Bulldogs will go on a road trip. Six games will be played on the trip. Following the game with the Central "Y," the Red and Blackers go to Savannah for a game with the Savannah Athletic club on the 30th. The next night the Baptist church of Savannah will be played and the games with the Seminole Canoe club, in Jacksonville, the Albany "Y," and the Columbus Y. M. C. A. follow. The road trip ends on the 10th, and the week following the Bulldogs invade South Carolina for games with Clemson and Furman.

Coach Stearns has had the basketball team busy since the middle of November and the squad is in very good shape. Some of the 20 substitutes have seen action since the opening practice and although this year's quintet is minus the services of three stars of last year, a strong five is being molded.

Captain-elect Charlie Wehrs, Jake Butler and Nolan Richardson are the only letters men back this season. Wehrs and Richardson were here last year, and Butler is a letter man from year before last.

Twelve men to return to Athens next Thursday include: Charlie Wehrs, Nolan Richardson, Sol Satol, Turner, Harrell Huggins, "Cotton" Malt, Buster Kilpatrick, Jake Butler, George Morton, Horse Harris, Mickey Frain and Slick Lamar. It is expected that the men will be carried on the Christmas list and it is not known which two will be dropped from the list.

Sixteen games are on the Bulldogs' schedule and five games will be played here. The first game will be played in Athens on the 22d when Vanderbilt meets here. Georgia and Tech meet here on the 31st, when it is expected that the new court will be ready.

24 Games at "Y." Twenty-four enterprising basketball combinations are scheduled to do their stuff at the Y this week in behalf of the Sunday School league. Coach Hansen has assembled his Tech basketballers following a "time out" for Christmas; various prep and high school quintets are swinging back into action; the city league meets tonight for the purpose of adopting a schedule, and—oh, yes, you know the fact—this is the game of the week.

So, with the indoor athletic activities enumerated above, and organizations which have probably slipped our minds, such as the Jewish Progress, club and others, Atlanta will not be without basketball contests. Not until also the University of Georgia and the Crackerjacks will be cutting corners in the balmy sunlight of a Florida training camp, preparing to float the pennant here that fans are confident Bert Nichols and his crew will capture next season.

science will attend the meetings, which will be based on the general idea of the service of science to man. This will be particularly emphasized by the address of the retiring president, Dr. D. W. Moore, secretary of the Smithsonian institution, who will speak at the opening session on "Science and Service."

The American Association for the Advancement of Science is the largest organization of scientific men and women in the country, having a membership of nearly 14,000. The association is divided among more than 30 affiliated organizations, each devoted to some separate phase of scientific research, and the annual meetings are held during the week. A total attendance of more than 3,000 has been indicated.

PHI DELTA THETA HEAD DEFENDS FRATERNITIES

Cleveland, December 28.—The 36th biennial convention of the Phi Delta Theta opened here today with an elaborate reception at the hotel attended by several hundred delegates.

Charles A. Macaulay, president of the organization, replying to a series of college fraternities as a menace to student life, declared that the college fraternity is a decided asset to education.

"We have solved the housing problem of the college," Mr. Macaulay said. "Phi Delta Theta alone has $1,000,000 invested in buildings. Our organization, with about 30,000 members, has a modern business organization to cooperate with educational institutions in scholarship, finances and other phases of the student's college career."

"Pride in his fraternity does much to build up moral character, and parents are beginning to realize that their boys are under a better influence when pledged to a fraternity than he is running wild."

PAN RADIO HUNT FOR NUTTING PARTY

Pittsburgh, Pa., December 28.—An effort will be made tomorrow night by three American radio stations to get in touch with members of the Nutting expedition, lost in the Arctic wastes for four months.

Stations KDKA, East Pittsburgh, WBZ, Springfield, Mass., and KYY, Chicago, will broadcast a special message, addressed to inhabitants of the Arctic region, asking for news of the ill-fated expedition.

The Nutting expedition, organized by William Nutting, to follow the course taken by the Vikings in their daring ventures to the North American continent, left Denmark on September 8, last, bound for Battle Harbor, Labrador. Nutting was accompanied by Arthur Hildebrand, John Todahl, and Mr. Fleischer. Their ship, the Lief Ericsson, has not been taken by the Vikings in the southern Greenland coast. Government cruisers and fishing boats have conducted a fruitless search for the expedition.

The effort to obtain news of Nutting and his party by radio was deferred until this time, when trappers from the remote Arctic regions make their pilgrimages to the trading stations. It is hoped that these posts, equipped with wireless receiving sets, will communicate the message to the trappers, who may have some word of the lost men.

KRAMER MEETS KAPLAN FOR TITLE

New York, December 28.—Fistic activities this week will erase the only question mark left in the list of champions when Danny Kramer, of Philadelphia, and Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., meet for 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden for the featherweight title on Friday night.

This crown since being swept from the head of the falling Johnny Kilbane by Eugene Criqui, of France, on June 2, 1923, in this city, rested on that of Johnny Dundee, only to be set aside when the Italian admitted he was unable to make the weight again.

Then it was snatched up by the New York state athletic commission to be awarded to the survivor of a tournament, built around six contenders and two alternates. Kaplan outpointed Baby Garcia, of Camp Holabird, Md., in the preliminary, and on the same night Kramer eliminated Mike Dundee, of Rock Island, Ill., and Jose Lombardo, of Panama, Col., in the quarterfinals.

That of Salt Lake City. In the semifinals Kramer drew a bye and Kaplan met Lombardo, knocking out the latter in four rounds. Kramer has had six weeks in which to prepare for the final test, Kaplan only three.

Criqui lost his championship to Johnny Dundee just eight weeks after he won it from Kilbane in 1923.

Did you know that Harold Lloyd, the famous silver screen comedian, once sold popcorn and papers?

Few indeed are the movie fans whose name is legion—who know that the great Harold Lloyd, in the life of his "hard slugging" When he first entered the movies his pay was $5 per day as an extra, and a few months later he was out to $2 per day when the company he worked for inaugurated a policy of economy.

This little intimate bit out of the life of Harold Lloyd is one of the thousands of its kind included in "The Blue Book of the Screen," offered by The Constitution to its readers in one of the most sensational offers ever made by a newspaper.

Regularly priced at $1 The Constitution offers you "The Blue Book of the Screen" for only $1 when accompanied by three coupons clipped from this paper. "The Blue Book" contains 500 illustrations and tells about the stars of film and how their pictures are made.

In this issue of The Constitution you will find an advertisement telling of the offer and a coupon which you may clip and use in ordering your copy.

Trustees of Trinity Will Consider Today

James B. Duke's Gift

Durham, N. C., December 28.—The trustees of Trinity college tomorrow will decide whether the institution will change its name to Duke university and participate in the $40,000 endowment fund created a short time ago by James B. Duke.

Mr. Duke, in establishing the trust fund for education, charity, and religious aid, stipulated that $6,000,000 should be expended immediately for the founding of a new educational institution in North Carolina, to be known as "Duke university," and that the university should receive a large percentage of the annual income of the trust fund. He further stated that should Trinity college care to become Duke university, the portion of the fund and income set aside for this purpose should go to the institution.

The meeting will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow in the office of Dr. William P. Few, president of the college. Mr. Duke arrived here today.

Six Undefeated Elevens Clash Thursday in West

San Francisco, December 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Six undefeated football teams will clash in three interregional games in the far west on Thursday.

At Pasadena, Knute Rockne's Four Horsemen and other trained performers from Notre Dame will close a spectacular season of undiluted victory by meeting Glenn Kramer's unbeaten Stanford eleven. At Berkeley Andy Smith's University of California Bears, undefeated in five years, will face Lou Young's University of Pennsylvania team, one of the few undefeated outfits in the east.

At Honolulu the University of Colorado champions, the Rocky Mountain conference, will share the gridiron with the strong University of Hawaii eleven.

Dame is odds-on favorite in the wagering, according to all reports, most observers look for a close game. Stanford supporters, though, predict a rout for the Rocky Mountain outfit.

California and Pennsylvania are considered more evenly matched, and betting is reported hesitant. Both teams have triumphed in great shape this season. California has played two tie games, those with Washington and Stanford, while the Quakers were held to one, the scoreless affair with Penn State.

There is little basis of comparison for the Honolulu game. Colorado has won the Pacific coast title for two seasons. Hawaii has cleaned up everything in sight this year, including Occidental, California, college.

Defeat of Missouri and Syracuse by Southern California is said to have shortened the odds on Notre Dame.

NOTIFIED POLICE OF AUTO ACCIDENT

STOVALL STATES

G. W. Stovall, of 449 Central avenue, whose automobile Saturday night injured Mrs. W. G. Wiesel, of 94 Cherokee avenue, Sunday night, furnished The Constitution with his version of the accident.

Mr. Stovall said that he was driving down South Pryor street at a moderate rate of speed, and when he reached Crumley street Mrs. Wiesel stepped from behind an automobile and walked directly in front of his car, making the accident unavoidable as far as he was concerned.

He declared that when he returned to pick up the victim she had been placed in another car, the driver of which was preparing to carry her to the hospital. He stated that he immediately reported the accident at police station and in-quired at the hospital as to Mrs. Wiesel's condition. The case was made against him, he said.

HANCOCK FARMERS PLAN TOBACCO CROP

Sparta, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—Plans are being made to start out early in the new year with the campaign to put on a great farming program for Hancock county which will rival the now famous "Turner county plan." Included in this program will be the cultivation of tobacco. For several years this crop has been before the farmers, but not until now have the prospects been favorable for a good acreage.

County Agent Truitt and the Hancock County Boosters' club are both behind the new farming program, and much prosperity is expected to result next fall if their plans are carried out.

WARFIELD TO RESIGN AS ASSOCIATION HEAD

New York, December 28.—S. Davies Warfield, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Stock, in a letter sent to members today, announced his intention of resigning as head of the organization.

He will continue his active interest in the work, however, through membership on important committees.

Mr. Warfield, who is president of the Seaboard Air Line railway has been head of the association for seven years.

RICKARD SEES DOWNFALL OF CHAMPS

New York, December 28.—(Special.)—Tex Rickard, dean of fight promoters in the United States, will probably succeed Jimmy Johnson as matchmaker for the Yankee stadium.

Rickard predicts only three fight champions to last through the year 1925 undefeated, and sees a probable loss to the present titleholders, including McTigue, Greb, Leonard, Villa and Sullivan.

Rickard also predicts that Dempsey will defend his title twice during the coming year, against Gribb and Wills, with Wills being the only logical opponent at present.

Minneapolis, Minn., December 28.—Joe Cantillon, former manager of the Minneapolis American association club, has purchased a half interest in the Little Rock team of the Southern association, according to reports here today.

Cantillon is a scout for the Chicago White Sox and will devote his time between the Sox and Little Rock. It was reported here that Lena Blackburne would become manager of Little Rock under Cantillon.

CAGE LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

The city basketball league members will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of electing officers and arranging a schedule for the coming season.

Teams already entered in the city league are Fort Snelling, Georgia Railway and Power company, G. F. G. club, "Y" Reds, I. C. Catholics and the Boethians, making it a six-club league at present, with several other teams seeking an entrance.

It has been planned to play the first round of games Thursday night in the Central Y. M. C. A., but the members of the league will adopt a schedule tonight.

NOVEMBER PRODUCTION OF AUTOMOBILES DROPS

Chicago, December 28.—The November production of automobiles reported to the Seventh Federal Reserve district bank was considerably under that of October, as the result of seasonal cuts of the manufacturing schedules of producers, the bank's monthly report said tonight.

"Passenger cars produced by identical manufacturers," the report set forth, "representing practically complete production, aggregated 201,622 in November, a drop of 21.8 per cent from October, and of 20.2 per cent from a year ago. This figure is the smallest shown since September, 1922, when 187,456 passenger cars were built."

Motor truck production for November showed a decrease of 14.2 per cent from the previous month and 4.1 per cent from November, 1923.

Retail sales decreased in November, as did wholesale distribution.

COMMISSION CITES PERFUME COMPANY

Washington, December 28.—A complaint against Houbigant, Inc., of New York, sellers of perfumes and other toilet articles, alleging attempts to maintain uniform resale prices, with resulting restriction in competition, has been issued by the federal trade commission.

The complaint charges that the company enlists and obtains the support of retail dealers and its officers and employees in enforcing the alleged merchandising system, with the result that purchasers of the products have been denied the advantages in price that they might obtain from unobstructed competition.

Less Radical of Changes Suggested Include Kickoff And Runs Following Fumbles

New York, December 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Discussion of football rules, with the probability that several concrete recommendations for changes will grow out of recent views voiced by coaches and officials, promises to be an outstanding feature of the gathering of various athletic groups and interests here this week.

The opening gridiron forum, where sharply opposing views on the forward pass and other features of the gridiron sport may come into conflict, takes place tomorrow when the Football Coaches' Association of America holds its annual meeting. This will be followed on Tuesday by the annual session of the National Collegiate Athletic association, when E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, will file his annual report and shed considerable light, it is expected, on the position of this governing body. The National Amateur Athletic federation likewise brings together athletic interests from all parts of the country, also is scheduled to hold its meeting tomorrow.

Though some drastic changes in the football code have been advocated in discussion by coaches recently, it appears likely that no radical changes will be endorsed by the coaches as a whole, most of whom believe the game is fundamentally sound in its present form.

Opinions Differ. Agitation started recently by H. M. Gore, Massachusetts Aggies coach, against the forward pass as a "nuisance" to the game in its present usage, likely will be reflected in the meeting. Gore has received support from several sources, but such prominent figures as Bob Zuppke, Illinois coach; Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan; Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame; and Bill Roper, of Princeton, have come out in opposition to any "kinking" with the aerial game. Eastern football officials yesterday were on record as opposing any material changes in the pass.

Principal among the changes which appear likely to receive endorsement, however, is one placing the ball back to the 40-yard line, as under the present code. Other suggestions widely favored include elimination of the run after the catch, elimination of the run after receiving or intercepting a forward pass, elimination of all optional features of penalty elimination, such as police after touchdown and elimination of the award of first down on an off-side penalty except in cases where the penalty is for an offensive team.

The N. C. A. A., among other matters, will consider phases of an athletic code.

Somewhat unique, a minor change advocated by Director St. John that is not known here to be championed by any one, is a suggestion to make the goal posts ten inches deeper. Such a provision, he pointed out, would aid officials and spectators in determining if a kick at goal were successful.

Set Kickoff Back. Another change favored by St. John is to set the kickoff back to the forty-yard line. "No one cares particularly," he said, "about seeing a team's offense over the defending team's goal line."

He is opposed, however, to a proposal made in some sections, for the rule to eliminate the rule requiring a player to be on the field on the outside as on the inside of the jersey and would do away with the flying tackle as being a dead-end play.

The Ohio State director would endorse a suggestion that rule 18, section 1, be changed to read so that if a ball is kicked off a player on the kicking team the old penalty of the ball going to the opposing team at that spot be restored.

TY COBB'S LIFE STORY

Chapter XXXVI.—Scores on Hit to Left—A Phantom Runner—An Explanation.

Most of Ty Cobb's long chances looked simple enough after he explained them. But until he stated his reasons and analyzed the play they seemed extremely foolish and risky.

In one Detroit-Philadelphia game Cobb was on first when Veatch hit a single to left. Cobb had a good lead and was off like a flash. He cut inside of second base and sailed for third. In recent years Cobb rarely attempted to go from first to third on a single to left, particularly where the left fielder had a fairly good throwing arm, but in those days he always did, and he was never out of the game.

Franklin Baker, playing third for Philadelphia in this game, ran to the ball. He was not looking for it. He was looking for the ball to be hit to him. He was looking for the ball to be hit to him. He was looking for the ball to be hit to him.

Baker's hands were reaching for the ball. Cobb reached the bag about the same time that the ball landed in Baker's hands. But Cobb was not looking for the ball. He was looking for the ball to be hit to him. He was looking for the ball to be hit to him.

Cobb Explains. As Cobb jumped to his feet the umpire nearly gasped.

"That play seemed like plain suicide," said Evans.

"Oh, no, it didn't. It was simple. Baker expected me to slide. Ordinarily I would. But I knew that Baker expected me to slide and the way he was reaching for the ball I knew he thought he had a chance to tag me coming in. He wouldn't stop to look at the ball. I had it all figured out. I knew that by the time Baker did all of those things I would be scoring, and you got to admit that I did."

There was never a harder loser than Cobb. He played to win and he used every ounce of brain and energy at his command to succeed. He could never give up. There was a striking illustration of this in a game between Detroit and New York while Clark Griffith was manager of the New York team.

It was a dreary game and the Tigers were pounding the veteran Jack Chesbro, then in his last days as a major league pitcher. For some reason Griffith refused to take Chesbro out of the box. Managers do that sometimes.

Not In His Nature. It seemed that Chesbro would never get three men out in one of the late innings. Cobb stepped in and as he was prancing around the bag Bill Donovan, coaching at first base, said to Cobb:

"Let me tag you out and get this game over with. That's the only way they'll be able to get anybody out."

"Yes, go on and do that! I'm getting tired myself," said Hal Chase, playing first for New York. Chesbro heard the remark and took a hint from the coaching. He threw the ball to Chase. Chase reached over to put the ball on Cobb. The runner jerked away a few inches. Chesbro lunged at him to make the out. Cobb stepped on the bag. He was running around Cobb and then the excitement started. Cobb ran up and down the base line, jockeying between infielders. The entire New York infield gathered around

AMERICAN SCIENTISTS GATHER FOR MEETING

Washington, December 28.—Scientists from all parts of the country gathered here tonight for the opening tomorrow of the seventy-ninth annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which will continue in session throughout the week.

Secretary Charles A. Macaulay addressed the opening meeting tomorrow on the subject of "Some Aspects of International Cooperation," and Sir Esau Howard, the British scientist, will speak tomorrow night before the American Political Science association on the "British Policy and the Island of Iceland."

More than one thousand scientific papers are to be presented to the convention, nearly all of them describing some new piece of research carried out since the last meeting. While many of these papers will be of a highly technical nature, it is explained that nearly all will have some bearing on the problems of the scientific world, such as the liberation of the energy of the atom, the control of the radio, the fight to control insects dangerous to human life.

Radio will be used for the first time to the public to the meeting, and a number of addresses are to be broadcast.

J. A. ACREE IS DEAD AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

J. A. Acree, 41, of 19 Lena street, died Sunday morning in a local hospital after a short illness. He was a special policeman and had served as custodian of the city auditorium for a number of years.

Funeral services will be held from Providence Baptist church at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, with Rev. W. L. Hamrick officiating. Interment will be in Providence cemetery, with Harry G. Poole & Son in charge.

Mr. Acree is survived by his wife, two sons, A. E. and E. M. Acree; three daughters, Mrs. L. Flournoy, Mrs. D. E. Payne and Miss Mary Frances Acree; his mother, Mrs. W. H. Acree, and three brothers, E. S., O. E. and A. B. Acree.

He was a member of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, which will be in charge of ceremonies at the grave.

BIG LOAN TO KRUPP'S TO BE FLOATED TODAY

New York, December 28.—The first piece of German financing under the Dawes plan will start with the offering of $10,000,000 notes of the German Krupp iron and steel works of Germany. The announcement is claimed to mark Germany's start toward recovery in industry, as proceeds of the financing will be used for development of the company's plants and property.

During the war this company was noted for the manufacture of big guns, but has since reverted to the manufacture of peace-time machinery.

The offer is for 7 per cent five-year merchandise-secured gold dollar notes of the Krupp company. The notes are offered at 99 1/4 and interest, to yield 7.18 per cent. Bankers regard the offering as one of the most important pieces of German financing ever arranged in the American market.

MONTEZUMA KIWANIS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Montezuma, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—Montezuma Kiwanis are making elaborate preparations for ladies' night on December 31, on which occasion the new officers recently elected will be installed.

During two years of its existence the club has been served by the officers who are retiring, and in this time it has become a potent factor in the civic life of the community. The membership is larger now than at any time since the organization was formed.

The retiring officers are: B. R. Adams, president; R. E. McGill, vice president; Joe W. Felton, secretary and treasurer; and John B. Guerry, district trustee.

New officers are: W. H. McKenzie, Sr., president; G. T. Mason, first vice president; Joe Walker, second vice president; G. M. Chastain, district trustee; and Richard Forrester, treasurer.

MASONS OF LUMPKIN ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Lumpkin, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—Lumpkin lodge of Masons has elected the following officers: W. J. Martin, worshipful master; B. L. Wood, senior warden; M. R. Revere, junior warden; A. T. Fort, treasurer, and J. V. Castleberry, secretary.

The officers will be installed January 9.

Monday, December 29, the lodge will be host to the Stewart-Webster Masonic convention, which will be entertained at a banquet. B. L. Wood will be master of ceremonies.

FARMERS OF THOMAS PLANTING TOBACCO

Thomasville, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—A number of the tobacco beds have already been planted in this country, and other growers are busy preparing them. The growers are being given valuable instruction in tobacco planting and are eager to learn as much as possible of this new industry from which they are expecting fine results in the future.

Guy S. Jones, tobacco expert who has been engaged to take charge of the warehouse here, is very active in looking after everything pertaining to the business and keeping posted on the number of acres planted, and he is certain that tobacco will be a success in Thomas county.

Norris Heads Chemists.

New York, December 28.—Election of Professor James F. Norris, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as president of the American Chemical society for 1925 was announced here today. Professor Norris is chairman of the division of chemistry and chemical technology of the National Research council. He succeeds Dr. Leo Hendrik Baekeland, of New York.

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES.

DRY SHAMPOOS.

The dry shampoo is the most awkward one to manage for powder preparations are apt to leave the hair white and mussy and liquid ones are often too drying. But there are times when the hair must be made fluffy and when a regular soap and water shampoo cannot be indulged in.

However, if a cold interferes with the hair being washed in the usual way this hint might help. Pin all the hair into a knot on top of the head except a fringe about an inch wide around the edges of the scalp. Put some hot water in a basin and make a thick lather of good soap suds, preferably castile. Wring a flannel out in this and rub it over the loose and hanging hair and into the folds of scalp that is being washed. Let the loose hair hang in the water too and wash it thoroughly. Rinse, using the flannel to squeeze water over the hair. Rub as dry as possible with a warm towel, holding the head over heat to quicken the process. Rub the scalp afterward with a little toilet water. The result—the hair that shows is fluffy and clean and so little of the scalp has been wet that there is no danger of making the cold worse.

At other times buy regular shampoo powders, or buy powdered orris root which does not cling. Use this generously on the hair and shake and brush until you think you have it all out. Then put absorbent cotton on the bristles of the brush and "polish" the hair. This takes off a lot of powder. At the very conclusion of the treatment rub a chamomile over the surface of the hair. This cleans and makes it glossy and is a good "set" to know of no matter how dry or oily the hair may be.

Junia.—Any exercises in which the legs and ankles are used will tend to reduce them. Since you are overweight, however, a more effective way is to reduce all over by eating less of all starchy or oily foods.

E. R. C.—If the puffiness over the eyelids continues consult the doctor as sluggishness in the action of the Powder keeps the hair fluffy. Hot or very cold compresses over the eyelids for a half hour or more will often relieve such a condition, if the trouble is local. A daily similar treatment will effect a cure.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

CHILDBIRTH DEATHS INCREASE SLIGHTLY

Washington, December 28.—Deaths in childbirth among American mothers increased slightly last year.

The death rate was 6.7 per 1,000 births in 1923, compared with 6.6 in 1922 and 6.8 in 1921, statistics of the department of commerce, gathered from 30 states show.

The highest death rate, 9.7 for every 10,000 births, was in South Carolina, and the lowest in Utah, where the rate was 5.0 per 10,000.

Savannah Wants Air Station.

Savannah, Ga., December 28.—Final plan for the establishment of an aeronautic association in Savannah are now being worked out by a committee designated for that purpose at a recent meeting of the American Business club here. O. F. Fulam, a field secretary of the Aeronautic Organization of America, is expected to come to this city January 12 for the purpose of organizing the body, it is stated.

FRANK BELL INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Frank Bell, of Bell Brothers' Produce company, Sunday night, was knocked down and slightly injured, as he was crossing Central avenue at Alabama street, by an automobile driven by W. A. Sanges, of 106 West-street.

No charges were made against the driver at Mr. Bell's request, who said the accident was unavoidable.

BOYS AND GIRLS' CROSSWORD PUZZLE

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found, each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across.)

Word 1 what the little girl has put on her hat.

Word 4 a boy's name.

Word 5 the missing word in this sentence: "Hurry, — You will be late for school."

Word 7 what all children like to hear.

(Running Down.)

Word 1 to iron or squeeze.

Word 2 the opposite of down.

Word 3 when you should go to bed.

Word 6 it appears in this sentence: "I like to work on the crossword puzzles in this paper."

Fashion shows are being held in private homes in England, Lady Carson's London mansion recently being used by a Parisian gown specialist.

William Archer, Dramatic Critic And Author, Dead

London, December 28.—William Archer, the noted dramatic critic and author, died Saturday.

William Archer was born at Perth, Scotland, in 1856 and was called to the bar, Middle Temple, 1883. His career as a journalist and critic was varied. He traveled for a time in Australia and then went to London and served as dramatic critic on many papers.

He edited then's prose dramas, five volumes, and the collected works of Ibsen, eleven volumes, and wrote many books relating to the theater and dramatic criticism. He was author of "The Green Goddess," a drama, in 1921.

Attractive Program To Be Offered Here By Cornell Clubs

Members of the Cornell Association of Atlanta, under whose auspices the Cornell Musical clubs will give a concert at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night at the Atlanta Woman's club, received the program for the Atlanta engagement.

This program, which has met with enthusiastic success in concerts in Baltimore and Wilmington, the first two stops on the Christmas tour, follows:

First Part: 1. (a) "Tina Mater" (Songs of Cornell). Glee club; (b) "The Green Song" (Songs of Cornell). Glee club; 2. "Down South" (Middleton). Mandolin club; 3. "A Wandering Minstrel" (Middleton). Joseph F. Wilkins and Glee club; 4. "Keweenaw" (Gibbs). Mandolin club; 5. "Laughing Song" (A.B.). Glee club. Second Part: 6. "Southern Melodies" (A.B. by G. L. Coleman). Mandolin club; 7. "The Two Grenadiers" (Schumann). Glee club; 8. "Rose Marie" (Fring). Mandolin club; 9. "The Wreck of the Julie Plaster" (French Canadian Habitant). Walter Weller and Glee club; 10. "Evening Song" (Songs of Cornell). Glee club.

In addition to the regular numbers the clubs have an exceptionally interesting repertoire of encore numbers, including various musical stunts of a college nature.

HENRY CONNOLLY DIES SUDDENLY

Henry T. Connolly, brother of the late Arthur B. Connolly, who was Atlanta's chief of police for 13 years, Sunday afternoon was stricken unexpectedly at his home at 380 East Fair street and died before physicians arrived.

Mr. Connolly attended morning services at the Immaculate Conception church, and on his way home in company with a friend remarked that he felt bad.

As he entered his house he collapsed, and physicians, who were hurriedly summoned, said death had resulted from neuralgia of the heart.

Mr. Connolly, who was 70 years old, was the son of the late John and Liza Connolly, two of Atlanta's earliest pioneers, who came to this country from Ireland.

He had been associated with the O'Keefe Electric company, 44 Fairlie street, for a number of years, and was a charter member of the Atlanta Pioneer School Boys' society.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ellen T. Ryan and Mrs. Anna O'Keefe. He was the brother of the late Mrs. Pat Lynch and of John F. Connolly, who died several years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning from the Immaculate Conception church. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery, with Greenberg & Bond in charge.

HAROLD BRIND BURNED

Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Falls Into Fire.

Harold Brind, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Brind, of East Atlanta, was burned about the face and body early Sunday morning when he fell into a fire which he had made in the back yard of his home.

According to hospital attendants, the boy was leaping through the flames when he stumbled and fell into the blaze. His injuries are not serious.

Red Hair and Blue Sea

By Stanley R. Osborn.

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

SYNOPSIS.
Palmyra Tree, on board the yacht Halloway, which is leaving the California coast for the south seas, is startled to see a slithering brown hand with a black lace mitt on it thrust through her porthole window. Palmyra is loved by two men, John Thurston and Van Buren Rutger. She is not certain which she loves.
She determines to unearth the owner of that sinister hand, but tells no one her purpose. She discovers Pompey Burke, who confesses he is a smuggler of coolies and opium, and permits her a glimpse of a savage brown man, Olive, hiding with him. She does the same brown man a good turn.
Palmyra gradually convinces herself she is in love with Van Buren Rutger. Burke and Olive leave the yacht at Honolulu, and Palmyra's engagement to Van Buren is announced. The yacht Halloway is wrecked. The party lands on an uninhabited island, surrounded by starvation. Burke appears on the Halloway, and promises to rescue them. Palmyra goes on board alone to investigate, and finds herself a prisoner. Burke sails away with her, telling her it was he who wrecked the Halloway. Thurston and Van Buren start at dawn in a vain pursuit.
Burke outlines his plan to Palmyra of making her queen of Tanna island, and grows ugly at her refusal to listen to his love-making. He decides to leave her alone on a deserted island for a few months, with barely enough food to last until she shall return to her. In terror Palmyra stays first night alone. In the morning she sees Olive, the brown man, swimming toward her. Exhausted from a long swim, he falls asleep. When he awakens he attempts sign language. Finally he communicates to her the idea that he and she are to swim away together in the Halloway. Making her a life preserver of coconut husks, they start their trip across an empty ocean. They rest at night on a barren beach.

INSTALLMENT XXXI. IN AGONY OF INDECISION.

At first Palmyra was aware of nothing beyond the fact she was once more on land. That was all sufficing. The island, by reason of her hours in the water, seemed to rise and fall as giddily as the sea itself. But she could cling to a pandanus and feel safe.

How many, many miles had they come? She recollected men had tried to swim the English channel. Was the channel twelve or twenty miles across? Something like that. But it was cold northern water and the swimmers merely European. Olive must have brought her infinitely farther.

True, the palms here, as on the other islands, were young or stunted by unfavorable condition. Such an atoll would be well-nigh invisible to so inexperienced an observer. Possibly, when Olive invited her into the ocean, it might never have entered his mind that she did not see the point toward which they were to swim. Still, though she now knew him to have rested so often, not in fatigue but in fear of making his landfall under the revealing sun, she could not bring herself to believe the distance had been so trivial.

The island, plainly, was inhabited. Danger of observation had forced Olive to remain in the sea until the light faded, and then—he must know this place like a book—to land through one of those depressions in the rim of the weather reef by which the water on the reef table, at the ebbing of the tide, makes its escape.

For two reasons, she thought, he could not have dared the lagoon. Its waters, because of the abundance of fish, would probably be alive with sharks; and its sands, the villages always standing on the lagoon beach, would be alive with men. But here, on the ocean face, he would have it barren, abandoned to the wind and surf, the birds and the spirits of the dead. This finding an inhabited island so close proved Burke's boast that the natives looked upon his prison islet as bedeviled. For without such a dread it would have been no prison.

Palmyra stared at the savage lying beside her. She was conscious of a revulsion. Out on the great ocean, when she was dependent upon him for the next moment of life, there had developed a something more than that childlike sense of need; a glow as almost of good will. But the moment she felt her feet once more on solid ground, she had begun to revert to her original loathing.

As she sat, heavy with fatigue, she tried to think what she should do. At first, though her mind raced on as under the stimulus of a drug, she was physically so numb as to be unaware of externals. She did not feel the salt water that filtered from her hair to drip down the end of her nose. She did not identify the dragging weight of the cocoanuts that hung from her shoulders. But she began at last to be aware she was shivering, her flesh as cold as stone. She made to wring the water from her clothing.

And now, belatedly, her reviving faculties apprized her that she was quite close to the houses of the inhabitants. Through the thicket she could see their little fires, smell the burning coconut husks and shells. She must have been seeing these fires all along, but until now they had meant nothing to her.

There might be a dozen houses in the group. Were others hidden by the dark? The island seemed narrow, but then, so were all of them. Even with the largest atolls of the Pacific, almost a hundred miles in circumference, the land inclosing the lagoon was never more than a third of a mile wide.

She discovered, with a puzzled indignation at her unintelligence, that she had been thinking of the people here as Olive's friends, those perhaps to whom he had sent the bird message. But, in fact of his cautious approach, their hiding, that could never be. Why, these were his enemies! Hope sprang up. From her dress she caught the knife and slashed away the fibers which bound her.

She would have tried to run, could she have forgot how, at the other island, he had awakened. Cautiously she began to work beyond reach of this demon. She skirted held her, and she had to squeeze out some of the weight of water. With every inch gained her courage grew. Finally she brought herself to her feet and, the island pitching and rolling under her like a boat, stood holding to one of the pandanus trunks. A few steps further and she could rush away.

But as she stood there, something of Pompey Burke's came back into her mind. "Queenie," he had said, "I own these dam' kanakas—body and soul; or did before the Japs came in. Scare 'em 't death first, then give 'em contraband. At the big settlements there's a bit competition, but these little places, I own 'em. I'm king."

Instantly, sickening doubt. If these people were the enemies of Olive in his rebellion, then they must be the friends of Burke. If Olive hid from them, it must be that they, to his purpose, were the same as Burke. The girl swayed, caught herself just in time. What, what should she do? Was it best to stay with the brown beast or throw herself back into the hands of the whites? Was there no alternative?

She temporized. Why not hold until day? She could judge better then, and was there anything to lose? In the morning Olive himself must meet these people, for to remain hidden by daylight was impossible. Then she could make an appeal.

But the savage, too, completely dominated her. She could not believe he had no definite plan. Daylight would not find him unawares; it would not find him at all unless that best suited his purpose. He knew a way out.

Yes, to delay was to make her fate a certainty. But in those thatches yonder—was there not a chance? At the other island she'd chosen between Burke and Olive because Olive was taking her to his clan. And if his people had seemed the lesser evil then, why not Burke's people now? Some one among them might be bold enough to make a stand in her defense, or at least to hide her. Anyway, she would go far enough to look into the houses, and then—

She pulled herself to her feet. But there the brown savage awoke. One hand reached for her at his side. Then he perceived her, in the filtering gleam of the rising moon, gathering herself for flight. Had she been less numb, she could have sprung away. But in the moment of her panic he seized her and stifled the cry that rose, unsummoned, to her lips.

He stood for some time grinning down at her, then led her back to her place. She could hear a sound of voices from the thatches; they were singing—a solemn chorus. She was as near as that, and yet, with the massive hand upon her arm, she was half the world away.

Olive cut down more green cocoanuts to eat and drink. She wondered what he would have done had she succeeded, on the first island, in getting his knife. He seemed dependent on it. Poignantly, in this new perception, she regretted not having made here a second attempt. Had she stolen it and got away before he could demand her own—assuming he knew of that—he might have been left at a fatal disadvantage.

The savage now tapped the ground significantly at her side. She was ordered to lie down and there remain. He turned and slipped away among the trees and, once more, she was left alone.

The girl half arose, then sank back with a gesture of hopelessness. He had not even troubled to tie her. Was he watching behind some tree to trap her if she moved? Or were there so few hiding places here was certain she could not elude him? Or was it that he so little cared whether or not she got to the inhabitants?

Continued tomorrow.

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION.
In years gone by, I've always made a lot of resolutions staid. I've sworn off smoking cigarettes. From saying "Darn" and making bets.

But hardly would the day go by But I'd be told by some smart guy, "You can't; I'll bet a pair of shoes; And I would say: 'You're on!'—and lose.

Some one would step upon my corn, And I'd say "Darn!" with face forlorn; And after dinner I'd forget And light and puff a cigarette.

I find that one must concentrate To change a habit or a trait; So let I overlook my brain, I never will resolve again.

Coal Miners Lead Nation In Matter of Big Families While 'White Collar' Men Lag

Bootblacks Have Twice as Many Children as Bankers, Statistical Report Reveals.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, December 28.—The popular wheeze about the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer describes the situation in the United States today, with the necessary exceptions to prove the rule laid down by a well-known social writer.

Coal miners have the most children, with other industrial workers and those who work with their hands and outdoors, including farmers, rank close behind. Bootblacks, for instance, have the largest families next to coal miners, while the bankers whose shoes they shine, have just half as many children, on the average.

The outstanding exception to the maxim is found among the professional classes which include persons who have few children and less money.

As a class, they have the fewest children, averaging two and three.

Many "old age" children.

These deductions are from a bundle of statistics gathered by the department of commerce, covering "completed" families. The record covers families having children during the last year in which the father is between the age of 40 and 49, and gives the number of children during the entire married life.

There were 147,209 children born to fathers between the ages of 40 and 49 years of age last year, and 66,704 to those between 45 and 49.

The figures show a great number of so-called "old age" children, those born after the father is past 45.

In the first class, between 40 and 44, the highest average number of children in a family, seven, is for coal mine operatives, and the lowest for architects, 2.8. The highest average number of children living, 5.9, appears also for coal mine operatives, and the lowest average number of children, living, 2.8, for actors and show men.

Medics Lag as Fathers.

In the class from 45 to 49, the highest number of children, 8.1, appears for foremen, overseers and inspectors and coal mine operatives, and the lowest average for dentists, physicians and surgeons, 3.3. The highest average number of children living, 6.6, is for coal mine operatives, and the lowest, 3, for dentists, physicians and surgeons.

Farmers had the greatest number of children last year. The average number is 6.2 to 7.

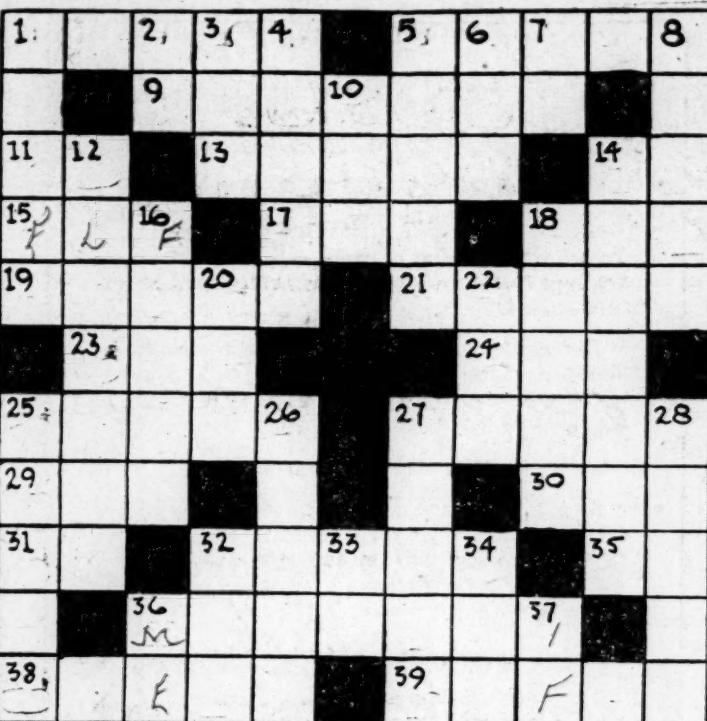

Outdoor workers and those who do manual labor have the greatest number of children at advanced age, the records show, although an exception here is found among jewelers, watchmakers, goldsmiths and silversmiths.

Preacher Rule Exploded.

While the professional classes have the fewest number of children, their children are better safeguarded, it is shown in the records. A greater number of such children are living than those of other classes. The greatest mortality is shown in the children of stenographers, typists, messengers and bundle and office boys.

The tradition which has come down since the days of Jonathan Edwards, a minister himself, and one of a minister's 11 children, that the preacher has the most children is exploded by government records. The average number of children in a minister's family in these days is between four and five.

LAURENS FARMER KILLED IN CRASH

Dublin, Ga., December 28.—(Special.)—W. P. Black, 39, well-known farmer of the Montrose section of Laurens county, was killed in an automobile crash late Saturday on the Macon and Dublin highway 10 miles north of this city. Black's car is said to have collided with a machine driven by a man named Baker. Black was hurled through the windshield of his car by the impact of the collision and was so badly cut and mangled that he died a few hours later at the Dublin clinic, where passing motorists brought him. The accident is said to have been unavoidable, and due, for the most part, to bad roads, caused by recent rains and dim lights on both cars. No blame is attached to anyone after an investigation by county officers. Black was unmarried. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

24 DEGREES LOWEST TEMPERATURE SUNDAY

Atlantans who were all set and ready for an extremely cold wave—temperatures lower than during Christmas week—were agreeably surprised Sunday when the lowest point reached by the mercury was 24 degrees, rising to 46 during the middle of the day.

The forecast from Washington for Georgia today reads:

"Fair Monday; Tuesday unsettled, probably rain; slightly warmer on coast."

For all states surrounding Georgia the forecast for today reads:

At midnight Sunday unofficial thermometers in Atlanta read 30 degrees.

"Man in a Million" Forgets Madalyne and Weds New Love

BY HAROLD ANDREWS.
Chicago, December 28.—The dust that has been gathering over the dramatic story of the "man in a million" has been brushed aside as if by a gust of wind with the announcement that Ralph Obenchain, 21, the marriage of Ralph Riley Obenchain, the staid and conservative young Chicago attorney who once proved that romance still rides with a white plume and that chivalry exists outside the movies and the story books.

Ralph Obenchain became an O. Henry character come to life about two years ago when he rushed to Los Angeles to help and to defend the woman he loved but who did not love him. The woman was Madalyne Couner, his former wife.

As Madalyne Obenchain, vivid and beautiful, she had been the toast of Chicago society as well as the idol of her husband's heart.

Freel from memories of the broken dreams of his first romance Obenchain has wed another type of woman, charming, studious Mabel Schmitz, 21 years old, a graduate of last June at Northwestern university, who held high rank in her work there.

The story of Obenchain's first love unfolded itself at the trial of the woman for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, the man for whom Obenchain had permitted his wife to divorce him. Kennedy, a millionaire broker, had been shot to death one night just as he was about to enter his home in Los Angeles. Madalyne was with him when he died.

The police arrested Madalyne and charged her with murdering the millionaire because, they said, he would marry her. Madalyne laughed in her cell and said it was terrible that they should accuse her of murdering the man she loved. After a lot of investigating the police arrested one of Madalyne's friends—a man named Arthur Burch. They said that Madalyne and Burch conspired to kill Kennedy.

However, to get back to the "man in a million," when Ralph Obenchain heard that the woman who had divorced him, but whom he still loved, had got into trouble, he told the Northern Trust company here that he was through. He was going to employ his talents to save Madalyne.

His friends tried to dissuade him from such a course. She had gone out of his life, they said, and the whole business was none of his affair. But the "man in a million" clunked everything and bought a ticket for Los Angeles.

Obenchain took charge of the defense, and the trial was a glamorous affair. "I still loved her," Obenchain admitted. "I love Kennedy," said
